

British and Germans Struggle Desperately For Pivotal Ridge--Each Is Holding Half-- Merville Occupied and Hazebrouk Under Fire

LONDON, April 12.—Field Marshal Haig's report Friday night from headquarters in France, says:
"Strong pressure has been maintained by the enemy all day south and southwest of Bailleuil. Constant attacks in this area were made in great force, and are continuing."

"Sharp fighting occurred also on other parts of the battleground north of La Bassee Canal, and the enemy made slight progress between the Lawe and Clarence rivers.

"At other points our positions have been maintained.

Summary of the Battle

Great Britain's armies stand at bay in France and Flanders. After three years of fighting, the British have nothing that has raged during the entire four years of warfare. Field Marshal Haig has issued a command to his troops that they must not be taken back and forth with the knowledge and consent of the enemy, but that they must stay where they are, to protect the safety of their homes and the freedom of mankind."

In the first phase of the giant struggle may now be considered the German position. The "German Statement," is Gen. Haig's admission, through the British press, that the British have been successful in driving the Germans back to the Meuse River. The British have been successful in driving the Germans back to the Meuse River. The British have been successful in driving the Germans back to the Meuse River.

Withdrawal in Picardy was officially reported to have been a part of the Allied strategy, but the period for such tactics originally has gone into history.

The order issued by the field marshal contains another sentence which may be pregnant with significance. "The French army is moving rapidly and in great forces to our support," he said, and this is the first official intimation that the Allies are ready to strike back at the German invasion. The blow may be a surprise.

front and compel the "Deputies to resign."

The Allies stand today on a front which is not as strong as it was last week, but which is nevertheless strong, but which is very strong throughout.

There is no doubt that the Allies intend to leave the old battlefield at Haoutou, west of Laon. From there they will advance in the direction of Coucy à Chateau and curves to the right, following the valley of the Aisne which it follows until it reaches a point where it crosses the Aisne, and then crosses over some high hills and runs just north to Menin.

From Menin the line runs north. This line is continued as far as Castel, where it crosses the Aisne, and then continues by a crooked line through Alvergnon, and then the line runs off to the north.

Objective is the Recapture of Jerusalem from British-Syrian Forces Fighting Indicated

LONDON, April 17.—The British and German news has stated a possible offensive in Palestine, along the coast, and in the interior of the country.

In both Palestine and Mesopotamia, the British have been making considerable complaints for several months against the Turkish Government, and the Turkish army. The situation became much a desperate effort for the British to capture Jerusalem, and to their assistance. Last week for the first time, the British have been offered in a war report to the young Lens and then turns sharply to the northwest past Bethune, entering the scene of the most bitter fighting. It continues as far as Merville, which marks the limit of the German advance. Germans in their present offensive operations, and then heads to the northeast to Passchendaele, north and east of Ypres. Here it curves to the left and heads north-northeast for a few days ago by Leuven General, on the German military writer that the tide was about to turn in Syria and Palestine, and that the recapture of Jerusalem had become a practical possibility. The British front extends across Palestine from the Mediterranean Sea to the River Jordan, passing about 15 miles north of Jerusalem.

The capture of Merville features the fighting during the last day or two, but along the line just north of Lens to Houlebeke, southeast of Ypres, there have been tremendous attacks.

the report. The facts of the matter should be known before many days.

The Franchise, But No Votes.

For a generation the basis of Dominion franchise has been that any person allowed to vote at provincial elections was thereby qualified to vote at Dominion elections. Last year Sir Robert Borden deliberately disregarded that established principle in order to disfranchise the people of Quebec when a Dominion election was to be held. He now again disregards the principle by a bill conferring the Dominion franchise upon all women in Canada, regardless of the fact that women in the province of Quebec have not the provincial franchise. The reason for the different course of action is found in the differing circumstances. Last year there was a Dominion election in view, at which Sir Robert did not wish the women to have a vote, and in his opinion quite sufficient. There being at present no election in sight, he has no objection to the women being given the theoretical right to vote. The principle that provincial franchise should qualify for the Dominion franchise does not count in Sir Robert's calculations, any more than the right of the women to have the franchise at the time when that privilege could be exercised.

The Morning Bulletin.

The morning paper marks the city as distinguished from the town, in its attitude towards the election. The evidence of the city columns are the evidence of the town. The business man or traveller arriving by train gets his first impression of the city from the morning paper. The city business man starts his day's work from a perusal of its columns, which influence or possibly give direction to his activities for the day. The people at outside points with whom the city does business get their knowledge of city business conditions from the paper which reaches them on the morning train.

The world news of the previous day comes by night wire, and up to the hour of going to press. The readers of the morning paper have the last word regarding world events. The men who in city and country carry the burden of business are the readers of the morning paper. Adequately and thoroughly they must their duties. The morning paper must cover completely the news field, both foreign and local, and must direct public questions from the standpoint of the public interest.

The Bulletin is the morning paper of Edmonton, and thoroughly covers the field, both in the city and throughout the territory. Where business centres in Edmonton, The Morning Bulletin's wired news service is second to none in the Dominion of Canada. Its readers have never failed to receive the latest available information on all subjects of world interest, and its general interest, and importance has been presented to the readers of The Morning Bulletin, promptly and effectively, and the Bulletin has been prominently in fact to have attained as important a position in this section of the newspaper world which it never had before, and is not likely to be overtaken by any other newspaper.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Winnipeg Free Press reports that the granting of a Dominion subsidy to the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia railway, and British Columbia have steadily continued that this railway was constructed for less than the assistance given the companies by the provincial government. If their Ottawa friends make the contemplated grant of two million dollars, over and above the assistance given by the province to the company, it will be interesting to see how the provincial opposition think of it.

Compulsory Early Rising.

The daylight saving law has arranged for the summer months. Arrangements, everybody in Canada is supposed to stay up till 2 o'clock in the morning. The law is supposed to be in force from the clock ahead of hour. Having thus curtailed the period of rest at both ends he presumably will be able to get up in the morning. We Are As Full Of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory

Auto-Intoxication or Self-Poisoning

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevent This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is "habitually constipated," is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-Intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Regularity; that it produces Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, and is relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; that it produces Eczema, Scabies and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-Intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on the eliminating organs.

CANADA'S PRIDE

CANADIANS have good reason to be proud of the position Canada holds in the world today. This pride is justified by the activities of her people, by her unlimited natural resources, by her splendid institutions, and particularly by her Industries.

Facts about the immensity of some Canadian industries would astonish most people.

These industries, when viewed in the light of comparison with other countries, are simply tremendous.

The growth of any industry is limited to the number of people it can serve, and that is a fact not often properly appreciated when Canadian industries are compared to similar enterprises in, say, the United States.

For example: the population of the United States exceeds 100,000,000. Opportunity for industries there is almost unlimited. In comparison, Canada with its seven million population is a small country—yet in spite of this comparatively small population, Canada possesses several industries which in actual size rank among the biggest in the world.

In shoemaking, one Canadian concern has developed a volume of business and a service to the Canadian people which is not equalled by another shoe manufacturer anywhere in the world.

While the sales of the largest shoe manufacturer in the United States—selling to the American people—do not exceed twenty-five cents per capita per year, the sales of Ames Holden McCready to the Canadian people last year were approximately eighty cents per capita.

In a comparative sense, therefore, this Canadian concern is greater than the foremost American shoe manufacturer in the United States.

Thus Ames Holden McCready truly merit the distinction of their title "Shoemakers to the Nation."

Just imagine for a moment the enormous work of supplying a large portion of Canada's 7,000,000 people with its boots and shoes:

—it requires—huge up-to-date factories equipped with the most modern machinery able to turn out 8,000 pairs of shoes a day.

—it requires—a variety of nearly 800 different styles to meet the requirements of all classes of people, for different grades, shapes and kinds of shoes.

—it requires—the maintenance of six large distributing branches in principal cities from coast to coast, and in these are carried over a million dollars worth of stock, ready for quick delivery to retailers.

—it requires—sixty travelling salesmen to call on the retail trade, because out of approximately 10,000 retail dealers who sell shoes in Canada, more than 5,000 handle A.H.M. Shoes.

—it requires—many other details of organization and equipment, but this brief outline will give you some slight idea of the part that this great shoe concern is playing in the business of supplying footwear to the Canadian people.

John Grigal of Sunnyside, Near Leduc, Has Succeeded With Bees
Alsike Clover Gives an Abundant Supply Nectar For Manufacture of Honey in Bee's Busy Factory.

Beetle News Service.
Mr. John Grigal, of Sunnyside, near Leduc, bought three colonies of bees last year from N. Bailey, Westchester, who wintered them in the basement of his house, which is heated by a furnace. Parting with the bees, he had considerable experience in this line of the old neighborhood of Mene, and best results he got there was 600 lbs. of honey from 20 colonies. Mr. Grigal, who is now in the 20th year of his life, is a native of the United States. The reason that Mr. Grigal considers this a favorable country for bee culture is the numerous and prolific sources of honey supply. These sources will improve as the country comes more under cultivation.

The cultivated grasses, especially alsike clover, form a never failing source of nectar. The weather is very favorable for bees. They get a better supply of nectar than in wet or showery weather. The winter population of the hives and it takes two or three days to get them again.

ERADICATE ALL POISON PLANTS;
SAVE LIVE STOCK

Water Hemlocks Are Most Deadly, and Act Very Rapidly

(Dominion Experimental Farm Bulletin.)
Among the poisonous plants in the west, there are three which stand out prominently as causing great loss to stockmen. In the spring, when stock, eager to eat anything green, are first put to pasture.

One of the earliest plants to do harm by offering a tempting supply of fresh food, is the death camas, which is poisonous chiefly to sheep. Dr. W. M. Williams, of the United States Department of Agriculture, writes: "The death camas is one of the most dangerous weeds on the western range."

Owing to the very heavy losses due to this plant in the United States, the United States Department of Agriculture has been very successful in its efforts, which showed that, although death camas was poisonous to both horses and cattle, it was not so dangerous to horses as to cattle. The whole plant contains the poison, but the leaves and the seed pods are most poisonous. Cases of poisoning, following the use of the seed pods, are common, as after flowering, the seed pods are scattered.

Death Camas.
Like many other plants of the lily family, the death camas, an erect, perennial plant, grows from a bulb. The leaves are grass-like, long, narrow, and pointed. The flowers are small, and the seed pods are small. The plant is found in the prairie, and is common in the foothills. It is a very dangerous plant, and should be eradicated from the range.

Water Hemlock.

A RAINY DAY

It was raining hard and Weenty was quite sure that the world was all drenched.

"Oh, do with the sun what he wants," said Weenty. "I'll get my umbrella and go out into the garden."

But she couldn't find her umbrella. She looked high and low for it, and it was a rather funny little thing when she found it at the bottom of the window.

The rain drops splashed from the eaves and ran down the gutter, making a murmuring little song as they went.

Weenty listened and she was sure she heard this song.

"Was with the country and clean the town."

We saw the streams and feel the flowers.

We wish a mission as we come down.

For we have the happy springtime showers."

Weenty had just cuddled down comfortably because the song had such a drowsy little tune, when she heard a rustle and a thump, and, turning round, she found her little umbrella, standing wide open on the floor beside her and the nearest face peering from behind it.

Your feet wet a bit. You may walk, however, that they left the rain behind."

"Why, it isn't raining any more," cried Weenty. "How bright the sun is!"

"It's just the same as usual," the Umbrella Fairy replied. "The sun always shines."

"Oh, it didn't rain?" Weenty said.
